

ANSWER MADE BY N. A. M. OFFICIALS

Claim That Broughton Brandenburg, Connected With Alleged Attempt at Bribery, Was Never Their Employee.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 2.—"Broughton Brandenburg never was in the employ of the National Association of Manufacturers," this was the reply Tuesday of John Kirvo, Jr., former president of the association, when he was shown dispatches from Washington reporting the charges made there by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Mr. Kirby, David M. Parry, also a former president of the association, and J. P. Bird of Plainfield, N. J., general manager of the association, left Tuesday night for Washington.

The party gave out a signed statement that the Mulhall affair had been engineered in an attempt to destroy the association. The statement follows:

"From the press dispatches shown us Tuesday the purpose of the so-called Mulhall story is made plain. Not satisfied with securing from the democratic convention held in Baltimore absolute pledges to exempt organized labor from the operation of the law of this land, they now attempt by falsehood and misrepresentation to discredit and destroy the National Association of Manufacturers—the one organization that from its inception has operated under the slogan of 'equal opportunity for all under the law.' That we are fought steadily by the greatest criminal trust this world has ever known, we do not deny; that we have illegally attacked or in any way misrepresented this damnable trust, we do emphatically deny.
